Solstice/Tall Tales Theatre Company Residency 2010

The much lauded residency of Tall Tales Theatre Company at Solstice continues to grow from strength to strength! As well as presenting new plays and work at Solstice, here's a quick preview of what's in store this year.....

Bog boy

A new play by Deirdre Kinahan which premieres at Solstice as part of the Solstice Festival on June 19th before touring nationally.

MOMENT:

A remount of the highly successful MOMENT by Deirdre Kinahan will remount later this year and tour nationally and to the UK. Commissioned by Solstice Arts Centre, Moment premiered at Solstice before heading to the Project Arts Centre.

SCRATCH

Following from the success of the Supper at Solstice series, Tall tales and Solstice launch a new strand of curated theatre nights. Scratch will be dedicated to new plays from contemporary Irish Writers.

Working with the community,

Working with Navan CDP, Alan King will facilitate youth workshops to develop a new script from participants and subsequent performance of a new play.

And in partnership with Meath County Council Arts Office:

SCRIPT CLUB works along the same lines as a book club. Tall Tales have picked out various different types of plays that members of SCRIPT CLUB read during the month and then everyone gets together in The Solstice for a cuppa or maybe a glass of wine to discuss the play in question. That's it, simple! Check the programme for the next date

Professional Development Workshops: Held every two months the professional development workshops ranges from theatre lighting to directing. These have a been a huge success, full list of workshops are published earlier in this programme
